New Delhi, June 6: Sanjay Tanwar was on duty when an AN-32 aircraft that took off from the air force's thickly forested area of Memchok in Arunachal Pradesh that fateful night. The plane went off the radar and Tanwar was to be one of the first to know about the disappearance. The transport aircraft that had been in service for 20 years and been quite a hit with the troops for its fuel economy was on a routine mission.

AN-32 pilot's wife was on ATC duty when aircraft went off radar

Relatives of Flight Lt. Ashish Tanwar, who was flying AN-32 aircraft, at their residence in Palakaya, Hyderabad on Thursday.

In July 2016, an AN-32 aircraft went missing near Chinchuli for 32 hours, the longest duration an AN-32 had been missing. Months later, on an unrelated occasion, an AN-32 involved in a mid-air collision with a U-34 aircraft and the second aircraft was also not traceable for 32 hours. The aircraft did not have a fly-by-wire system and the controls were manual, which was why the pilot did not have a chance to escape.

In the past few years, India has been foraying into regional cooperation under the Bimstec framework. Integration, Ramachandran, is vital, as it's increasing the degree of positive energy. It is not all about tactics of winning and losing, it is about the confidence that we can have among our TV and foreign affairs minister be also international sanctioned committee. It is going to be a key priority for India and Russia. It can be a big source for vehicle for economic and regional peace.

Shah to get Vajpayee's Manor residence

Shah would be given the residence once Sanskrit has been declared as the official language. It would be a significant step towards Sanskrit being used in daily life. However, the official language in India is currently English. The move is expected to boost cultural and linguistic pride among Hindi speakers, who make up the majority of India's population.

Saarc has certain problems: EAM

The three-language formula for Indian states would not object to Sanskrit, unlike Hindi. Therefore, it should be nationalized in all government schools. The National Education Policy (NEP), which has since been released, also advocates for the inclusion of Sanskrit in the school curriculum. It is a significant step towards Sanskrit being recognized as a national language.
The BJP is lighting naked pyres of terror at places where we have won in Lok Sabha, says WB CM Mamata Banerjee.

ARUNA DHODA/PTI

The BJP has been accused of lighting naked pyres of terrorism at places where it has won in the Lok Sabha elections. The statement was made by West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee.

The Trinamul Congress has been critical of the BJP's rhetorical tactics, calling them inappropriate and harmful. The BJP has been defending its actions, stating that they are a form of protest and resistance against the Congress.

However, the Trinamul Congress has been vocal in its criticism, accusing the BJP of exploiting the sentiment of the people and using rhetoric to further its political agenda. The party has been calling for a peaceful resolution to the ongoing political crisis.

The statement by Mamata Banerjee comes as the political deadlock continues in India, with the BJP and the Congress Party struggling to form a government at the national level.

The BJP and the Congress Party have been engaged in a bitter political battle, with both parties accusing each other of indulging in questionable tactics.

The Trinamul Congress has been vocal in its criticism, saying that the BJP's actions are not only inappropriate but also harmful to the country's image. The party has been calling for a peaceful resolution to the ongoing political crisis.

The statement by Mamata Banerjee is likely to further escalate the political tension in the country, with both parties engaging in a blame game over the ongoing crisis.

The BJP has been accusing the Congress Party of indulging in questionable tactics, while the Congress Party has been accusing the BJP of using inappropriate methods to further its political agenda.

The political deadlock in India continues to frustrate the country, with the people looking for a stable government that can address the country's pressing issues.

The situation is likely to remain tense as both parties continue to engage in a political battle, with neither of them showing any signs of yielding. The situation is likely to remain tense as both parties continue to engage in a political battle, with neither of them showing any signs of yielding.

Centre plans to order Uber, Ola to go electric

New Delhi: In a move that sets the agenda for the upcoming G20, India wants its two biggest ride-hailing companies, Uber and Ola, to convert their entire fleet to electric vehicles from next year. The Centre is also planning to order electric vehicles under the Make in India scheme and wants to provide a fast charging infrastructure to enable smooth mobility.

In a letter to Uber India CEO Pranay Gupta, Union transport minister Nitin Gadkari said that India wants its two biggest ride-hailing companies to convert their entire fleet to electric vehicles by next year. He also asked Uber to set up a research and development team in India to focus on electric mobility.

The move comes in the backdrop of the global push towards electrification of mobility, with several countries and companies making significant investments in electric vehicles. India is also looking to become a hub for electric vehicle manufacturing, and has set ambitious targets to phase out fossil fuel vehicles by 2030.

The Centre is also planning to order electric vehicles under the Make in India scheme, and wants to provide a fast charging infrastructure to enable smooth mobility. The Centre also suggested that Uber could partner with state governments to establish charging infrastructure.

Gadkari’s move is likely to be welcomed by the Indian auto industry, which is looking to electrify its fleet in line with the government’s targets. The Centre has also been pushing for the adoption of electric vehicles as part of its efforts to reduce carbon emissions and improve air quality.

The letter also highlighted the need for India to reduce its dependence on imported petroleum products. DECCAN CHRONICLE | FRIDAY | 7 JUNE 2019 | HYDERABAD
POWER PAKED

Brisbane: Pakistan's batting coach Grant Flower has tipped gifted opening batsman Rohit Sharma to 'kick on from there and keep clicking' after he made 111 against South Africa in the first of their two-match Test series. Flower said Rohit’s century was a sign that Sharma got a hundred and it was a great omen to India’s chances so it is a great sign that Sharma got 100 even though he didn’t do it in the World Cup. Flower believes “he can go from first gear to fourth gear in an instant and just move on. We expect him to do well against the West Indies, he’s an amazing player,” said Arthur praises his team’s professional performance with the bat and with the ball through the gears. Rohit Sharma and Kohli will be crucial when we're chasing 200. We now need to be consistent and ruthless.”

FAF FUMES

Jean-Paul Duminy of South Africa holds the record for most wickets in one-day internationals. However, he cannot rely on his bowling to get him out of trouble. He needs to turn it around and focus on his batting. He needs to be more consistent and ruthless. The Proteas need to work on their bowling and focus on their batting. They need to be able to score runs quickly and turn the game around.
